Cavalier

PRINCE EDWAR

ACADEMY

Seeking the Truth. . .

Foreword . . .

As each year passes, each of us will grow in wisdom and in stature--we will meet scores of new people and new opportunities. In spite of all the new that one meets, he will never forget the old, the cherished memories of yesterday.

When each one reviews the pages of this album, the 1963 CAVALIER, he will be able to look back on his high school career at Prince Edward Academy with a great deal of pride and an overwhelming sense of gratitude to those who have made this phase of his education possible.

We are all thankful not only for these school buildings, but for the unforgettable administration and teachers who have made this such an important and vivid period in our growth. Nor will we ever forget our fellow students, with whom we walked these familiar corridors, as each of us was "SEEKING THE TRUTH . . ."

Opening Day. . .

Dawn at Prince Edward Academy on opening day.

Students talk over summer experiences before the activities of the day begin.

Anxious Seniors line up to go in to the assembly.

. . . Activities

During Opening Day exercises Headmaster R. C. Gilmer gives the students some good advice for the coming year.

The students start off the coming year with happy faces.

Parkie White and Danny Simpson seem happy that the first day of school is finally over.

Familiar Activities . . .

Before school Mr. Gilmer and Mr. Robeson are kept busy in the office signing excuses.

Mr. Groseclose holds the shop class spell-bound as he exhibits his skill.

One of the busiest days at school - the day Max Ward is here to take school pictures. Max poses each student and turns out perfect pictures.

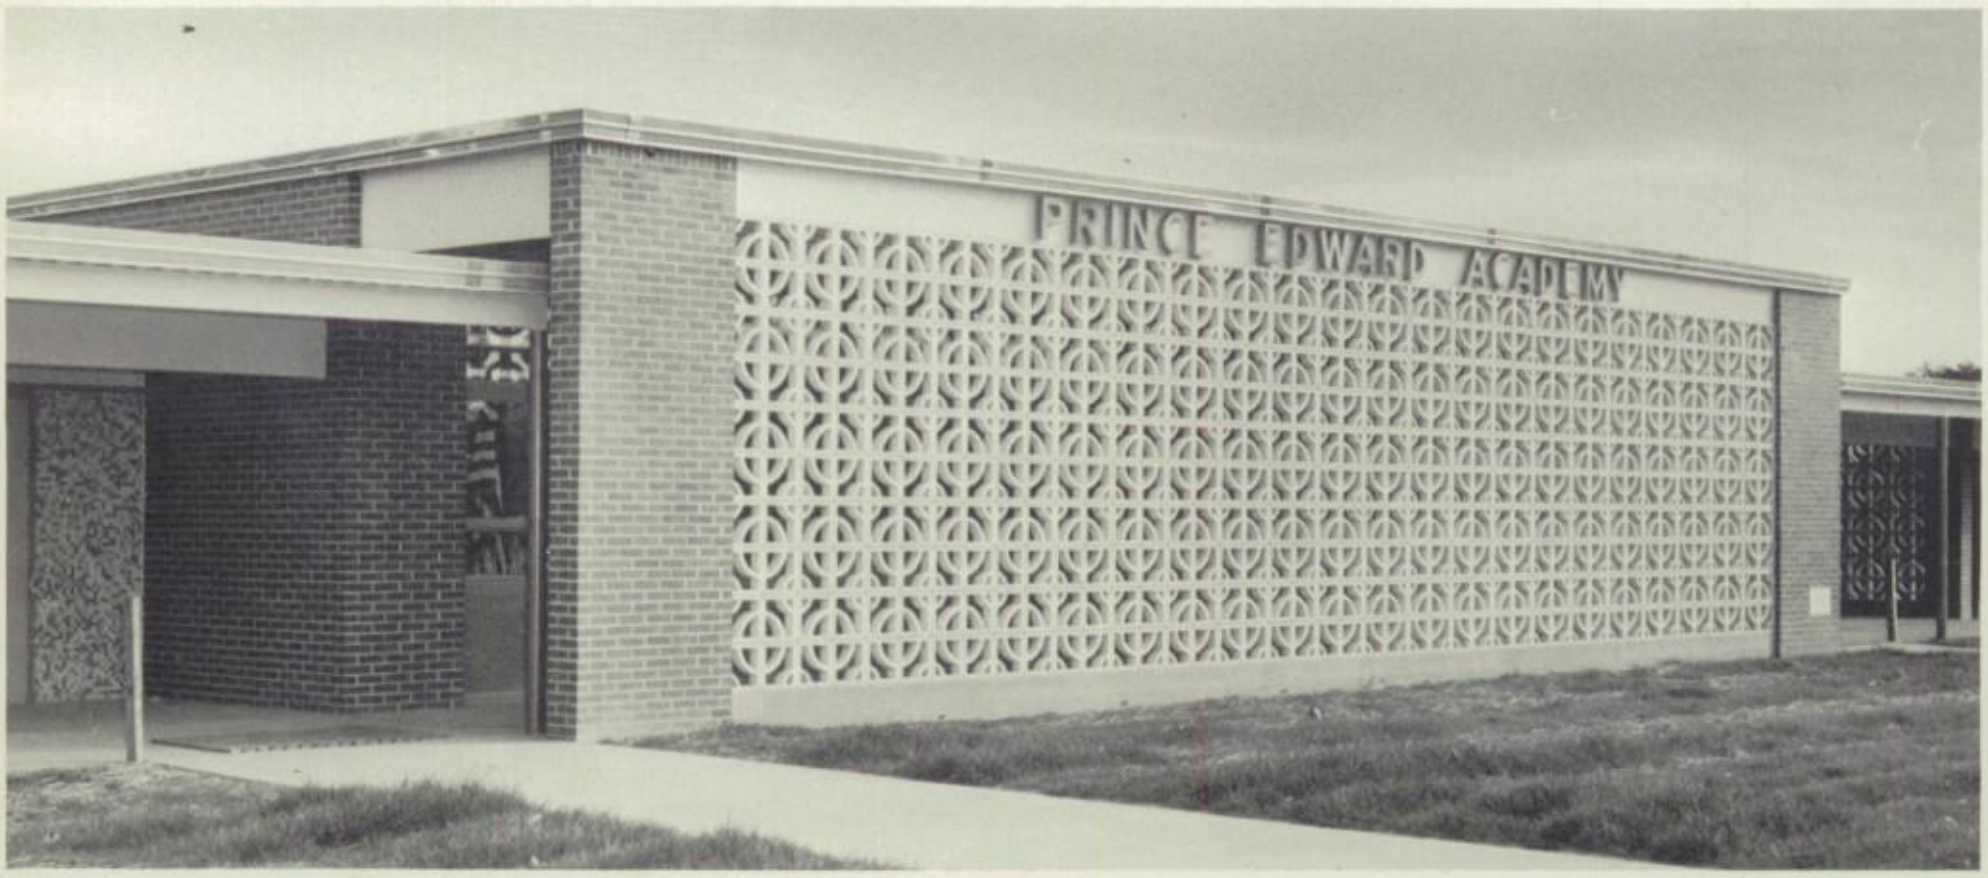
Campus Views

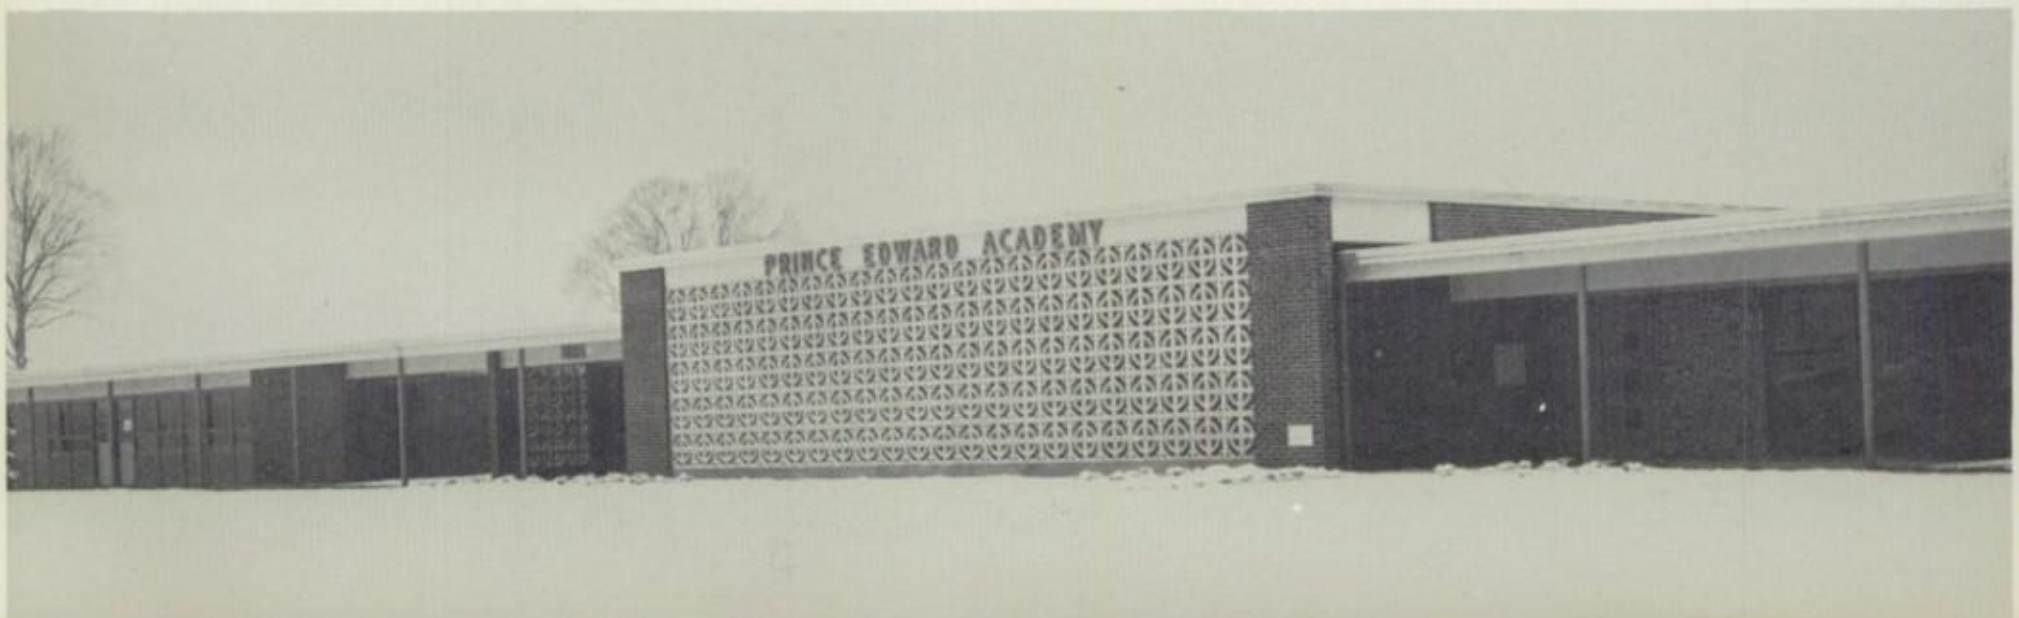


Prince Edward Academy reigns quietly over Longwood Hills. Nestled high on the hill, our growing campus presents an impressive scene for all to see.

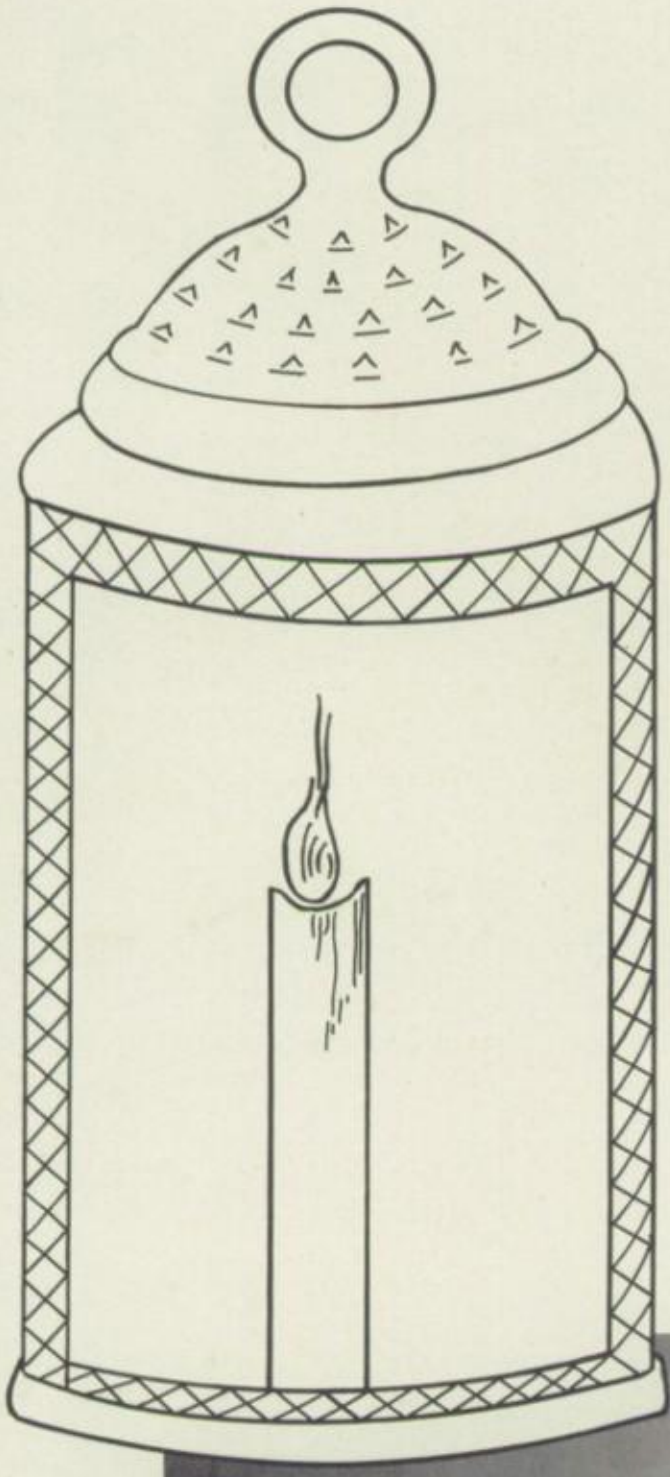
We were indeed fortunate to have Miss Sprague, professor of English and author from Longwood College to speak at Prince Edward Academy this year.

In the fall, a tea was given in honor of the Faculty and administration of the Prince Edward School Foundation.

All is quiet at Prince Edward Academy as the snowfall cancels school activities for the day.



. . . In Our Activities



As each person takes part in the various activities of school life, whether they be club or social, we learn a lesson of accepting leadership, an ability to follow and an enjoyment of associations with our fellow students, as each of us "Searches for the Truth" . . .

The Cavalier, Prince Edward Academy's yearbook, is published by our own students so that everyone may have his own album of memories. The pictures portray all aspects of our school life--academic, athletic, and social. They reproduce and capture the highlights of football games, the gaiety of dances, the progress of our school and the memory and likenesses of all our schoolmates and faculty.

This album is the product of long arduous hours dedicated by the Cavalier Staff in the hope that the student body and faculty may look back upon this year not only as a milestone of growth but as one of happy reflections.

Prince Edward Academy's leader organization is its Student Co-operative Association. It very ably sets high standards for all students to follow and governs the activities of all student clubs. While the S.C.A. Council is composed of one representative from each homeroom, the association itself includes the entire student body. Good student-teacher relations and better citizenship are promoted as well as scholarship. The Academy S.C.A. is proud of its reputation of preparing today's student leaders to become tomorrow's leaders of America.

Articles and feature stories are written by staff members. The pages are typed by the typing department. A very necessary factor of Prince Edward Academy's life, the newspaper also offers a chance for experience in journalism.

This year Prince Edward Academy formed the junior varsity football squad. It was created especially for the eighth grade and freshman boys. Besides giving the boys a chance to develop physically, it provided an opportunity for them to learn good sportsmanship and fellowship with both their own team and teams from other schools.
